

St. Louis Post-Dispatch file photo

ABOVE: Members of the American Red Cross tend to Spanish flu victims in St. Louis. In San Antonio, 53 percent of the population became sick as local officials struggled to accept the truth of the disease.